FAST, EASY AND PROFITABLE ONLINE CHALLENGES

What's an Online Challenge?

A challenge is a call to take part in a contest or a competition.

In an online business world, a challenge is a mini-training where you take your participants through a series of actions for a set period of time to achieve a common goal.

By joining your challenge, the participants make a commitment to challenge themselves to form a new habit, to master a new skill, to complete a project or to achieve a goal.

Challenges can be created on any topic for any business. Here are a few examples of the challenges:

- Start a blog
- Eliminate sugar from your diet
- Organize your home
- Master Instagram
- Create online dating profile
- Connect with your spirit guides
- Start marketing with videos
- Learn to meditate
- Find your purpose

Why Do Online Challenges Work?

You have probably noticed that over the last 5 years online challenges have become increasingly popular.

They are often seen and used as an alternative to New Year's resolutions, and they can be done at any time of the year!

Anytime someone wants to make a change, stick with a commitment for a period of time, establish a new habit or reach a specific result – they often start by looking for a community or a group that is interested in doing the same thing and can provide feedback and support.

ONLINE CHALLENGES

What Makes Online Challenges So Successful:

Commitment Level

Have you ever downloaded a lead magnet that looked like a useful resource or bookmarked a video to watch later (and you had all intentions to do it), but you NEVER did anything with it?

Yeah! Me too!

And now it's been filed away along with the other things you will "do someday."

That's exactly why online challenges work.

When you sign up for one, you are basically committing to taking action, not just talking about it. And when the challenge is designed right – it will keep you accountable, motivated, and engaged on a daily basis throughout the duration of the challenge.

Most effective challenges are easy to consume and implement (often requiring as little as 5-15 minutes a day), and only last 5 days.

Everyone can commit to doing something for 5 days, right?

Because of that - the completion and satisfaction rates with challenges are WAY higher than after an average 5-week program.

Small Changes

Online challenges encourage you to take action every single day.

Every day you take a small step towards your goal - a small, clear and easy-to-implement step that gets you closer to the result that you want to see.

Effective online challenges show you how small and consistent actions can give you the foundation for significant results if you continue on this path.

Fun

They are fun for you, as you are creating and running a challenge, AND they are fun for the participants.

Online challenges lend themselves nicely to "gamification" – adding elements of game playing (rules, points, competition, prizes, etc…) which increase both the engagement and excitement.

Trust

There is something special that happens when a group of people shares a positive experience.

A successful online challenge creates trust in you and your business practices and serves as a strong foundation for long-term relationships with your potential clients.

Once your participants start seeing results in just a matter of days, they will be much more likely to spread the word about your challenge and about their experience with you.

And they will be a lot more likely to want to continue working with you by investing in the offer you make at the end of the challenge.

To produce the most impact and the best results for you participants and your business, your challenge needs to have these elements:

- Provide community and support
- Be focused
- Require a reasonably short time commitment
- Introduce small daily changes or steps (micro-commitments)
- Set participants for daily wins
- Be fun
- Build trust
